Q18. What is your general position on government-funded income support programs, such as guaranteed basic income?

Support implementing guaranteed basic income programs

Q19. Is there anything else you would like to share about your candidacy or your desire to serve the people of your district?

I am running for State Representative because I believe rural communities deserve leadership that listens, shows up, and fights for everyday people. As a first-generation Latina, social worker, therapist, and local elected official, I understand the challenges many families in District 32 face, from limited healthcare access and economic hardship to the lack of opportunities for young people in rural communities. My candidacy is rooted in service, advocacy, and the belief that government should work for everyone, not just a select few. I am proud to be the first Latina woman to run for this seat, and I hope my campaign inspires more young people, women, and underrepresented voices to see themselves in leadership. I want to bring a people-centered approach to Santa Fe that prioritizes behavioral health, education, economic opportunity, and civic engagement. Most importantly, I want the people of District 32 to know they will have a representative who is accessible, accountable, and deeply connected to the communities they serve.
